The Lady's Not For Burning, At Least Not This Saturday

Something new in college dramatics begins here Saturday when the Olivet Players from Olivet College, Mich., will present Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning" at 7:30 p.m. in the Collegeville auditorium.

Fry's play is a satire about a young woman who is condemned to death for witchcraft. The production marks the start of a project in which Saint Joseph's will "exchange" productions with various nearby colleges.

The plan was originated by John Ravage, assistant professor of speech at Saint Joseph's. In exchange for "The Lady's Not For Burning," the Columbian Players of Saint Joseph's will present "Incident at Vichy" during December at Olivet College.

Ravage explains that through this exchange program, Saint Joseph's will benefit from a larger number and greater variety of dramatic presentations than would otherwise be possible. At the same time, other schools participating in the exchange program will benefit in a similar manner.

Admission to Saturday's performance will be free for Saint Joe students. There will be a charge of $1.50 for the non-college theater-goers.

'Siddhartha' Slated For Next Book Talk

English Club President Steve Brinker has announced that the subject of the club's second book discussion of the year will be Hermann Hesse's "Siddhartha." The discussion is scheduled for November 30, in the Merlini Lounge, 8:00 p.m.

All students and faculty are invited to the discussion. Paperback copies of "Siddhartha" are now available in the College Bookstore.

THANKSGIVING MASS

An all-campus Mass will be held Monday night in celebration of Thanksgiving, announces Father Leonard Kostka, C.P.P.S., chairman of the Religious Life Committee. The Mass will be concelebrated at 10:00 p.m. in the Halleck Center Ballroom.

The precedent-setting Mass will "give Saint Joe students a chance to come together and give thanks for all our blessings," said Father Kostka. The idea originated with the Student Union, which seeks to emphasize participation by both the faculty and the student body of Saint Joseph's.

In conjunction with the Thanksgiving Mass, a collection will be taken tonight in each of the dormitories. Echoing the theme that "Thanksgiving is giving," Father Kostka has contacted Student Union Vice-President Paul Kiffner, who has requested the Hall Representatives to ask each member of their respective halls for a donation. This collection will be used to buy foodstuffs for needy Jasper County families.

Senate 'Totally New Approach To Student Government:' Raykovich

Adoption of a Student Senate form of government at Saint Joseph's College came under fire at last night's Student Union meeting, but proponents of the plan still express confidence that the student body will approve of the change from a Student Council form of government in an all-campus referendum next month.

The Student Senate, seen by Student Union President Tim Raykovich as an "entirely new approach to student government at Saint Joseph's," will expand upon the present Student Union form of student government. One student senator will be elected from each housing unit of either 50 students or a major fraction thereof. Off-campus students will be represented by the same method with the exception that housing units of less than 25 students will be combined with other similar groups to elect senators from the total number of students.

"We're trying to get student government back into government," Raykovich explained. "Formerly, the Student Council was just a social committee. The Student Senate will be a governing body, a representative legislative body for the students. This is a big step forward in student government, with better representation of student opinion."

The underlying consideration in the new plan is a shift in the basis of representation from the class to the hall. "In the past, the Student Council consisted of nine members — the four class presidents, the four Student Union officers, and the Inter-Club chairman. With the Student Senate," Raykovich stated, "there could be as many as 37 members."

"The hall is becoming the basic sociological unit on campus, replacing the class. It's almost impossible for one class president to represent 300 people. This will undoubtedly mean that class officers will have less power than before, but this is all for the general good."

The senator to the Student Senate will replace the hall representative as the basic representative of the student body. Raykovich admits that the hall representatives had no real power in the Council and that "they really were just a grievance committee." While the hall representatives were only an advisory group, the student senators could conceivably push through measures by their own initiative. This force of the Student Senate would create a system of checks and balances on the Executive Board.

Voting on the Senate will be done on the basis of one vote for each student senator; one vote for a senator elected by the club presidents, who does not necessarily have to be the Inter-Club chairman; two votes for each of the four executive Student Union officers; and two votes for each of the four class presidents.

Besides having the power to pass measures of its own, the Student Senate will have the power to amend the Student Union constitution's by-laws. Changes in the constitution itself will have to be taken to the student body for a vote by the whole enrollment.

"Student senators will be integral parts of the Student Union," Raykovich believes. "They'll have more power than hall representatives, and once students realize that the Student Senate has the power to legislate on such matters as curfew hours, they'll take a closer look at who they elect as their senator."

Reaction to the Student Senate concept has been found by Student Union officers to be favorable so far, with faculty reaction termed "very favorable."

"I can't see why anyone could object to this plan," Raykovich claims. "The student is clearly going to benefit from it in many ways."

The Student Senate form of student body government is gaining impetus across the country. Such neighboring schools as Purdue University, Valparaiso University, and Wabash College employ this system, and the current trend for most schools with an enrollment of more than 600 is to have this form of government. Besides being more equitable in regards to representation, student senates are "generally considered to be the most reliable and the most effective."

Initiative for the adoption of the Student Senate concept here at Saint Joseph's came directly from Student Union President Raykovich, who first proposed the measure as part of his election platform last spring. He plans the first year of Senate operation as somewhat of a trial year, in which "we can look for weaknesses and generally guide the Senate through its first year of existence."

Revived Debate Team Ranked In Top 8 Teams At Indiana State

The newly-revived Saint Joseph's College Debate Team rated among the top eight teams at the Indiana State University Debating Tournament last weekend in their second tournament. Forty teams in the novice division from 18 different schools from Indiana and Illinois participated in the events.

Representing Saint Joseph's on the affirmative at Indiana State were Ben Dandrow, junior political science major, and Steve Nett, freshman philosophy major. This pair defeated Indiana State, Purdue, and Ashbury College, and lost to Valparaiso and DePauw.

Taking the negative stand at the Terre Haute school were Hillary Evers, freshman accounting major, and John Blueitt, freshman management major. Evers and Blueitt out-rated Indiana State (of Evansville), Indiana University, and Anderson College.

Nett also took honors in public speaking as he discussed "Awareness in an Organizational World." He rated two superiors and one excellent in competition.

The topic of debate at Indiana State was "Resolved: That the federal government should provide an annual cash income to all citizens." This is scheduled to be the intercollegiate debate for the 1967-68 school year.

The Debate Team's first appearance was at Ball State two weeks ago. Receiving certificates of excellence in the novice class were Dennis Thomas, senior speech major, and David Dalton, sophomore history major.

The team has been organized by Mrs. Wayne Easley, Forensics Director and a National Teaching Fellow in Speech at Saint Joseph's. She is combining the Forensics Lab, a course in applied argumentation, and the Debate Team, thereby giving students a chance to participate in debating either for academic credit or as an extracurricular activity.

Idealism, A Cliche?

I think the war going on today in Viet Nam is but a huge symptom of something even bigger. The same with race problems. There are little people-wars going on all over. Sometimes the wars are word wars and kill no one. And sometimes, in some places, people are dying. Not just in Viet Nam, or in the hills of South America, but also in America in the summers.

You can see it in the movies they make now, a certain tendency to reach for extremes. And the frustrating result seems to be that the extremes don't hold what they seem to hold and are simply reduced to clichés. What shocks you now won't shock the next generations. They'll have shockers of their own. And slowly, the cynicism and the black humor and the blood-sex bit will prove to be a big, blind alley.

In a way—a sad way—I think it's too bad that the times are considered so worthless that we allow them to be defaced and on occasion take part in the disease of defacing them ourselves, with daring and cynical gropings for extremes that put us in the frustrating frame of mind that we are in.

If it would be possible to view the times as times of serious thought, but also times of exciting and momentous change, and if it would be possible to keep this outlook and to give it to other leaders who can spread it to the followers, maybe things would change course. Maybe the old cliché, which was once an idealistic extreme for someone, about how things are okay if you think they are, is applicable, slightly modified. Maybe if you can see some good in the times as well as seeing the dark side, and give the sides their proper weight, maybe this voluntary degeneration of many ideals will lessen—nothing drastic—just lessen, and then maybe the strange preoccupation with violence will go away someday—and then maybe these absurd battles in the streets between peacelovers and the freedom lovers will subside and the country can move on toward some new greatness. The choice is the greatness or the blind alley. What do you think? P.F.D.

Planning The Future

Last Tuesday's faculty meeting saw another step in the right direction for the college: the approval of a five-year plan which would entail that the Office of Admissions would accept incoming freshmen on an increasingly-higher academic quality.

At the present, a large majority of every freshman class have predicted indices falling between 1.6 and 2.3. And the bulk of these students rate below 2.00, which happens to be "just average." The new plan, if approved by the President's Council, the Board of Trustees, and the Board of Directors, will see the acceptance of a freshman class with over half of its members' predicted indices between 2.3 and 2.8. There will be more students accepted with predicted indices between 2.8 and 3.3, and fewer with anything under 2.00.

The ramifications of this plan could greatly alter the nature of the Collegeville community as a liberal arts college. Accepting freshmen who have shown their ability and desire to be "students," Saint Joe's will automatically become a better place for learning. The faculty is here, but only a student body with initiative and curiosity can create the atmosphere for constructive intellectual, spiritual, and social pursuit.

The faculty is to be commended for its sincere belief in Saint Joseph's and for the foresight it has shown in constantly trying to improve all facets of the college. But the question now is whether it can be done. Can we attract the type of student the faculty wants? Can we keep him here?

Every year, an appreciable number of high school seniors with admirable predicted indices apply at Saint Joe's. But all too often, they end up cancelling their applications and enroll in a more attractive college. One of the major reasons for their decision to cancel their applications is the college's inability to offer them the financial support they need. Besides competing with other colleges in academic standards, Saint Joe's will now need to compete in making it financially feasible for those applicants with higher predicted indices to become a part of the Collegeville community.

Ultimately, the decision of making Saint Joe's a better college lies in the hands of the administration, the Trustees, and the Directors. The faculty has voiced its hopes for the future, but it will depend on the "higher-ups" as to whether Saint Joe's can offer the financial aid to attract the kind of student the faculty hopes to see. The meeting last Tuesday posed a challenge to those who have the final say in improving Saint Joseph's College. STUFF would like to congratulate the faculty and to echo their hopes for the progress of the community. S.S.

Big Deal!

Grand Old Lady Causes Ocean-Size Commotion

by Phil Deaver

It is now just a little more than a week ago that a spokesman from the Development Office made the official announcement at the monthly faculty meeting that the college had purchased the Queen Elizabeth, for use as a classroom building at the Rensselaer campus. As we all know the announcement has once again put Saint Joseph's in the news.

The Queen Elizabeth, sister ship of the Queen Mary, is four city blocks long. Critics of the move wonder how the ship is to be brought to Rensselaer.

"We propose," said another spokesman, "that one of these two plans of action be put into effect. The proposed canal from the Iroquois to the campus docking area, between Bennett and Raleigh Hall, would entail removal of three blocks of residential area from what is now the southwest quarter of Rensselaer, plus the removal of the newly-completed Grace Street Bridge and naturally the Milroy statue. The Rensselaer City Council, however, in an effort to block this, has tabled the proposal indefinitely. The alternative, of course, is to have the ship dismantled and bring it here by trucks which would unload on the IM fields. If we dig a canal, there will be huge piles of dirt on the IM fields for a while. If we bring the craft by truck, the IM fields will be covered with piles of ship. A committee has been named to ask the PE department which they prefer.

"At any rate," the spokesman went on, "the ship will be brought down the main avenue past the pond and all the way back to the docking area." I noticed this morning that the carpenter shop or someone has already begun removing the front gate."

It is now history that when the news of this purchase hit the news wires the stock market hit a new high and a new low in the same hour. It is reported by our Washington correspondent that President Johnson has dispatched Vice-President Humphrey on a tour of the U.S. with the intention of clearing up White House views on the matter.

Both Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan have sent messages to the President of the college, Father Charles Banet, volunteering to speak at the rechristening of the ship at Collegeville in the spring.

In the wake of threats from the Rensselaer John Birch element, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago has offered the college the services of the captured U-505 submarine currently on display at the Museum of Science and Industry. It is expected that the sub will travel alongside of the Queen Elizabeth as protection from any and all who hope to destroy the ship enroute. The U-505 is on its way and is expected to arrive in the next week, surfacing between Gallagher and Noll. If you have questions about that, don't ask me.

World opinion is raging over the matter. Sen. William Fulbright called the move "an act of arrogance of power, reflecting upon the entire Great Society movement." In a statement to the Tass News Agency, Abdul Nasser called for Russian attention to be directed toward the purchase, calling it "obviously the front for a plot aimed toward the destruction of the Egyptian people." In a press conference, Father Banet virtually ignored these statements, but called the recent Time article entitled "They're At It Again," the most cynical thing he had ever heard.

Father Wellman was quick to add that the move will be "a boon to Catholic education." Charles Schuttrow of the College News Bureau reported that he had a note on his desk from the Milwaukee chapter of the NAACP saying, "Watch it."

Father Banet's press conference also brought out that "Father McCabe and I have agreed that at considerable savings the engine room of the ship could be used for the same purpose that the present library basement is being used for without any loss of atmosphere. The upper decks can be used for classrooms. Father Druhan has spoken to me concerning his qualifications for being hall director should we use the lower decks for a dorm. Queen Elizabeth and Shakespeare were contemporaries."

Governor Branigan said, "Indiana has always been a good place to go to college, and I've always thought of Saint John's as one of the best in the state."

Brother Gerard, editor of the campus underground newspaper, The Daily Bulletin, when asked what he thought of the matter said he hadn't heard about it. "Nobody ever tells me anything around here."

When informed that the ship is scheduled to arrive March 16, he called Father Banet and proposed that perhaps March 17 would be better since there is a Student Union Mixer scheduled for the sixteenth. Father Banet is reportedly looking into the matter.

Mr. Hugh Hefner, whom the college outbid for "the grand old lady of the Atlantic," as we all know, took a running jump out his office window on the seventy-seventh floor of the Playboy Building in Chicago last night. At press time he was reported in good condition, but was expected to hit the sidewalk at approximately noon today.

Letters To The Editors

Dear Sirs,

In view of past yearbooks, I can imagine the difficulty of producing original liturgical pictures of our college community, but the complete omission of this vital area of Christian life in Phase hardly shows any idea of what happened last year. Certainly the guitar Masses presented every week with an accompanying group the size of the Christy Minstrels might have suggested a picture or two. Personally, I feel that the loss in Phase of those fleeting moments of transition at Saint Joseph's was a shame due to the lacking interest and participation in a Christian, campus life.

Dear Sirs,

Professors Goodman, DeLaney, and the University of Illinois Symphony Orchestra and myself take great pleasure in expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation for the reception by the audience at our program at Saint Joseph's. Please extend our comments to your administration, faculty, and students for making our short stay so enjoyable and pleasant. We hope that the performance was most satisfactory and rewarding.

Dear Sirs,

In reference to the petition of approximately 150 names in support of the proposed purchase of the puma cub. You failed to make note that this petition was only a sample petition circulated and signed by the men of East and West Seifert exclusively. Also, it should be acknowledged that only two students declined to sign the petition out of the 150 students that had the opportunity to sign it.

Jim Durkin

Dear Sirs:

JMK's editorial on the Graduate Record Exams in last week's Stuff was too much for me to swallow, especially after observing that writer's behavior before one of the exams. On all three evenings, the conversation before the tests was rife with references to the "South Side" (Ed. note: Correction, the Wagon Wheel.) Contrary to the complaint of the editorial, no anxiety about loss of study time was evident. JMK, in fact, was so enthused about the post-test festivities, that he rose from his seat in the front of the auditorium and shouted something about "beer" and "South Side" to the back of the room just as Father Ballman (Ed. note: Correction, Father Ballmann) was starting to give directions. (Ed. note: Dr. Louis Gatto, Associate Academic Dean, gave the test directions.)

Come on, you guys, that old song about loss of study time, improper lighting, and undue stress went out with high button shoes. Anyone with common sense rejects that argument as infantile and unwarranted under the circumstances. It certainly gave the over-all impression of a whining adolescent protesting a minor inconvenience that a mature person would quietly take in stride. I certainly hope that it did not reflect the majority feeling of the senior class; it surely reflected no credit on us.

PUMA PRINTS

By MIKE LAGINESS

The last football game has been played and the 1967 Puma grid season is nothing but history and memories. Memories of the upsets over Ball State and Evansville and the sweet win over Valparaiso. Memories also of the losses, which were not so sweet.

The 1967 Pumas ended their season on a sad note as they dropped a 22-3 decision to Illinois Wesleyan. The defeat dropped Saint Joe to a 3-6 record for the year.

Saturday's game was a dismal repeat of the Pumas' failures in the first five games of the season. After three superbly-played games the Saint Joe men slumped in their last game of the year. A combination of poor passing, frequent penalties, bad refereeing, and general inconsistency plagued the Pumas and brought back memories of their early season play.

The season was not a great one but it was not a bad one. It is one that will be remembered. Special mention should be given to all the graduating seniors on the squad who gave the team everything they had this year. They deserve a pat on the back.

It is true that most of the team will be back next year, says Coach Jennings, "but it is hard to say whether there will be any radical improvement with only one year added experience and the loss of some key seniors who will be hard to replace. We still have to find some good breakaway backs. We will have to look to this year's freshman team for some added depth."

Tidbits Congratulations are due to Fred "Slick" Bucina, who was named Small College Player of the week by the Indianapolis News Downtown Quarterbacks Club. He was picked on the basis of his tremendous showing against Ball State on November 4. It marked the first time since 1963 that a Saint Joseph's player had been so honored by the News' Quarterback Club. In October of that year, guard Ron Boguski was cited for booting two field goals; one of them a 52-yarder which helped the Pumas topple DePauw by 9-6.

Saint Joseph's footballers have won the Indiana Collegiate Conference's total defense championship. In six games, the Saints allowed 1462 total yards for a 243.6 average per game, nearly two yards per game better than Indiana State's Sycamores, who permitted 245.5 yards per game.

Orchids Musicians, singers, comedians, actors; take note that the Monogram Club is sponsoring a Christmas frolic to be held in December. There will be cash prizes for best acts and Santa Claus has promised to show. Watch the daily bulletin for information on auditions. They'll be coming up soon.

Speed Again Top B-Ball Key

"We'll never stop running." With this remark, Coach Jim Holstein leaves no doubt as to his plans for this coming basketball season. For three seasons, the Pumas have displayed a go-go attack built around speedy guards and a fast break. In the past, this was needed to offset a marked lack of height. This time around, however, the Saints have improved height, but Coach Holstein stated: "We're still going to run this year, even though in my estimation the Pumas have the horses." Holstein hopes to use this improved height and a running game to support their size.

The Pumas, however, will be seriously handicapped by the loss patented fast break will be junior guard Chuck Lamm. With the loss of Broussard, the Saint Joe offense will be centered around Lamm. He will take over the reins and should not have any trouble here, since he was regarded as one of the fastest guards in the ICC last year as a sophomore. He averaged 16 points per game and was second in assists. Lamm should team up with the winner of a wide-open chase for the other starting guard spot: returnees Bill Conwell and Steve Scharf along with sophs Mark Hurtubise and Ted Hillary.

Pohlgeers Possible At Forward

Frank Pohlgeers will give the Pumas balanced scoring and good size from the forward spot, which should make the fast break more potent than before with his good speed and size. Lettermen Dennis Potts and Tom Gross lead the list of forwards along with Jim Nicolletta and Dan Ellis, who will be fighting for a starting berth at the other forward spot. Sophs Bob Seggerson and Ted Hillary also bring strong credentials into the battle for a starting spot, here.

Center Biggest Problem

Holstein's main question mark seems to be the center position. Right now he has six-foot, ten-inch Bill Weliky, who averaged nine rebounds and eight points per game last winter as a freshman and John McGladdery, who stands six-foot 11 inches. Both have been battling it out and the increased height here could make the difference in a winning or losing year. John is an eligible junior transfer student from Independence in Missouri.

Coaches Pawlow, Holstein

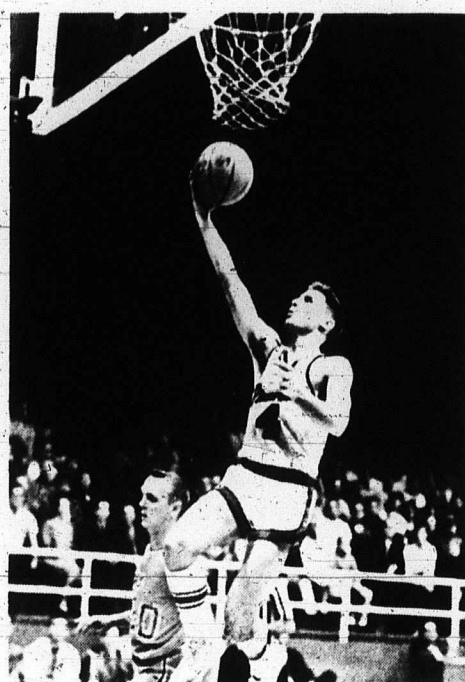

of Ken Broussard. Ken was a jumping-jack guard who averaged 20 points per game and used to electrify both home and visiting fans with uncanny moves.

Lamm Leads Guards

Coming down the middle of the

Crowley, Farley Will Lead Old Timer Attack Saturday

This Saturday Coach Jim Holstein sends his 1967-68 edition of the Saint Joseph's basketball squad against the Old Timers. Once again the Saint Joseph's

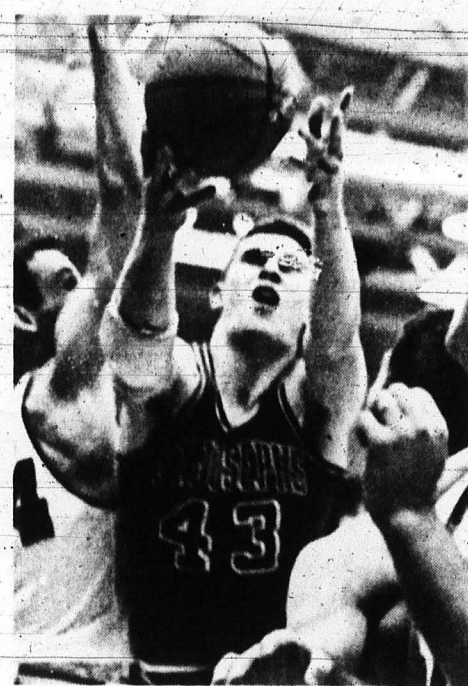

CROWLEY

Monogram Club will be sponsoring the affair. This is one game in which the fans will be the biggest winners. The varsity will clash with a talented group of former Saint Joe luminaries headed by thousand point clubbers Tom Crowley, '66; George Post, '65; and Beaver Marcinek, '63.

Tom Crowley, a versatile back-court man, will return to the scene of many a great day while a member of the Cardinal and Purple. Tom had the distinction of earning the MVP awards both in basketball and baseball while playing for the Pumas. Terry Davisson, who sparkled on the gridiron as well as the hardwood, will be back to keep the proceedings lively. Terry earned the reputation as the ICC's premier hatchet man during his career at Saint Joe.

Fred Farley, '66, and Lonnie Brunswick, '66, two guys who could run and score, also return. Lonnie fired home 46 points in Alumni Fieldhouse to establish a single-game season mark against Aquinas in 1966. Lonnie is the typical country boy basketball player who never hesitated in putting the ball in the basket. Lonnie was named to the second team all-ICC basketball squad in 1966. Fred, a Ohio product and a strong boy, ranks as one of the quickest men to play in the ICC.

the Pumas go last year and should not have lost much from the year layoff. Joe had a deadly shot and was an extremely good ballhandler at the guard spot while Jim was the boy who held down the rebounding end of the '67 squad. Jim holds the school track and field record for the high jump with six feet two inches, which gives you an indication of his jumping power.

These are but a few of the stars on hand for Saturday's contest. The Alumni will provide stiff competition for the varsity. The alumni roster is selected from among the former varsity players who have graduated within the past five years. A 1:00 p.m. freshman scrimmage will precede the Old-Timers game.

Pumas Slip, Slide To Finish Season With Titan-ic Loss

Illinois Wesleyan's Titans slogged through the mud of Wesleyan Stadium Saturday for three second-half touchdowns to defeat Saint Joseph's, 22-3, in the season finale for both teams.

The Pumas finished their 1967 season with a 3-6 record while Wesleyan concluded with a 7-2 mark. It was the Titans' fifth consecutive win, snapping a three-game win streak for the Saints.

Starting from their own two yard-line, the Pumas moved out to the 15 in three plays, but then fullback Karl Maio lost five when he slipped on an attempted end run, and Titan guard Gary Johnson tackled quarterback Al Bucina in the Saints' end zone for a safety, making it 2-0 with 10:22 to play in the quarter.

Saint Joe responded seven minutes later, following Tom Burke's recovery of a Titan fumble of a punt at the IWU 26. After penalties pushed SJC back to the Wesleyan 46, Bucina passed to halfback George Badke on a short screen pass and the senior back raced 31 yards to the Titan 15.

The IWU defense stiffened, but halfback Paul Kiffner booted a perfect field goal from 34 yards out to move Saint Joe ahead by 3-2 with 2:48 to go in the first quarter.

Wesleyan moved for the go-ahead touchdown on the first series of the second half, helped mostly by three penalties against Saint Joe that totalled 50 yards. After the third penalty had moved the ball to the Saint Joe 16, quarterback Randy Dewar gained six, two and two yards on successive line bucks for a first down at the SJC six. Fullback John Thorne then drove off his own right tackle for two, and halfback Bill Pfeiffer swept his own right end for the score. Bill Farrar's kick for conversion was perfect for a 9-3 Wesleyan advantage with 12:15 to pay in the third quarter.

Ten minutes later the Titans marched 91 yards in four plays to score after Milt Payton's punt had left IWU in poor field position at their own nine.

Wesleyan opened the fourth quarter with a nine-play, 63-yard drive climaxed on Dewar's 25-yard toss to Pfeiffer. Farrar's kick failed, but the count stood 22-3 with 10:45 left in the game.

George Badke, one of this year's gridiron standouts on both offense and defense, is hit hard as he tries to return an Ill. Wesleyan kickoff.

Student Disciplinary Procedure Established Here

(Editors' Note: The following is the text of the new procedural policy of students' rights in the area of discipline. This policy was approved by the faculty at its Nov. 8 meeting.)

Student Disciplinary Review Board. In cases involving student disciplinary action, after the Dean of Students has accused a student of violating disciplinary policies of the Student Handbook, if the accused desires the Student Disciplinary Review Board to review his case, the Board may receive such an appeal. The purpose of the Board is not to act as judge in the case, but, after having reviewed the facts of the case and all circumstances pertinent to the case, to recommend leniency to the Dean of Students should circumstances warrant such recommendation. If circumstances do not warrant a recommendation of leniency, the board should advise the accused to accept the imposed penalty. In no way, however, does action by this Board prevent the accused from appealing for a hearing before the Judiciary Committee.

When a student has requested a review before this Board, all records of notices, briefs and hearings possessed by the Office of the Dean of Students pertaining to this case are to be made available to this Board. This Board is to keep a detailed written report of its proceedings and is to make a statement in writing with its recommendations to the Dean of Students. A tape of its hearings is highly recommended to the Board.

Committee on Student Life. The committee is composed of six appointed faculty members, the Dean of Students, and the Director of Student Affairs. One of the appointed faculty members is to serve as Chairman. The purpose of the Committee is to concern itself with furthering all aspects of student welfare other than academic. Specifically, the committee is to initiate and interpret policy relative to:

- 1) religious activity on campus,
- 2) the aesthetic environment of the student body,
- 3) The proper climate for furthering the academic life of the student, and
- 4) creating the environment within which the student body may take his place as an adult, not only among his peers but among those, who by reason of office, stand above him.

The Committee is to make an annual review of the Student Handbook in order to recommend appropriate disciplinary policy to the faculty and to establish appropriate penalties for violation of such policy.

The committee serves in an advisory capacity to the Dean of Students with respect to the interpretation of disciplinary policy established by the Faculty.

Judiciary Committee. Consisting of three faculty members, receives all student appeals of disciplinary action.

If the Dean of Students, having received facts in a case which violates disciplinary policy, imposes a penalty and if the accused appeals his case, the competency of this committee relates both to the guilt of the accused and to the appropriateness of the penalty. The committee acts as a final court for student disciplinary cases.

The committee is to have access to all records of notices, briefs and hearings pertinent to a particular case, from the Dean of Students Office.

In order to provide the necessary balance between the rights of the total college community and the rights of the individual accused of violating community rights, the following general norms are to be observed:

- 1) Students charged with violations of institutional regulations should be informed of their rights. No form of harassment should be used by institutional representatives to coerce admissions of guilt or to obtain information about the conduct of other suspected persons.
- 2) Pending action on charges, the status of a student should not be altered nor his right to be present on campus and to attend classes be suspended, except for reasons relating to his physical or emotional safety and well-being, or for reasons relating to the safety and well-being of students, faculty, or college property.

Although it is expected most violations will be handled informally, the following detailed procedures are available for the protection of the student:

- 1) When a student is accused of violating disciplinary policy of the College, the authorized college official issues a summons referring to the Handbook regulation that was violated. The accused student is to report to the Dean of Students Office on the next day that the office is open.
- 2) If the student wishes to initiate the review process, he must prepare a written brief of defense to be heard by the Dean of Students at a reasonable time set by the Dean of Students, but in no case less than three days. The student may be represented by counsel and witnesses. Also, adverse witnesses may be called against him.
- 3) After the hearing, notice of the charge and penalty is to be given by the Dean of Students.
- 4) At the time the student receives the final notice of charges and the penalty imposed, he is to be informed of his rights, which include:
 - a) the right of review from the Student Disciplinary Review Board for the purpose of obtaining recommendation for leniency. This appeal must be made formally within 24 hours after receiving notice of the penalty. This Board is to have access to copies of all records of notices, briefs, and hearings from the Dean of Student Office.
 - b) the right of appeal for a hearing before the Faculty Judiciary Committee, a committee made of three faculty members. This appeal must be made formally within 24 hours after receiving first notice of the penalty, or after the second notice of the penalty given after the Student Disciplinary Review Board hearing. (The Judiciary Committee is to have access to copies of records of notices, briefs, and hearings from the Dean of Students Office). The accused has the right to be represented by counsel at this hearing, to call witnesses in his behalf, and to confront adverse witnesses if he so desires.
 - 5) All penalties of imposed suspension and expulsion are cases of automatic review by the Judiciary Committee before they become effective.
 - 6) Written decision reached by the Judiciary Committee is to be given the accused.
 - 7) The decision of the Judiciary Committee is final, subject only to the student's right of appeal to the President.

The hiring of a professional photography firm to handle the college's publications efforts was announced last week by the Office of Public Information.

"Thatcher and Associates come to us with the highest of recommendations from other schools they have assisted, and their hiring should lend invaluable aid to our photography program," Charles J. Schuttrow, Director of Public Information says.

"The quality of their work is superb, and this should result in a considerable improvement in Saint Joseph's photography for the overall publications program," he adds.

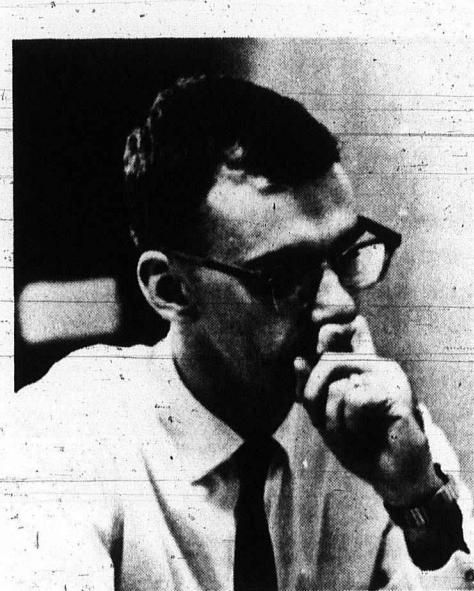

Thatcher & Associates' primary service is the taking and processing of pictures for development, student recruitment, brochures, yearbooks, advertising and general forms of public relations.

By virtue of their hiring, the Chicago firm becomes the official photographer for Saint Joseph's graduating class of 1968. On a date prearranged by the photo firm and the college yearbook staff, Thatcher & Associates will begin taking the senior portraits used in the yearbook, Phase.

The yearbook editors have not yet announced when the taking of senior portraits will begin, although it has traditionally been conducted during the early weeks of the second semester.

Saint Joe Profile Students, Faculty Shouldn't Be Self-Satisfied: Fenner by Raymond Leliaert

Dr. Francis Fenner, chairman this year of the Student Life Committee, has been instrumental in obtaining faculty approval of the new students rights procedure for discipline, one of the main news items in this issue of Stuff.

About the new disciplinary procedures he said, "The task of disciplinary regulations is to maximize the freedom of the student and yet still keep a social order so that people can study and people can teach. The emphasis should definitely be on the freedom side of the ledger." As chairman of the Student Life Committee, Dr. Fenner has been trying to involve the students more in policy formation. Speaking about this involvement, he said, "I don't think that most of the student body realizes that it is the faculty's responsibility to devise disciplinary procedure. With Father Wise we are attempting to revise the old notion of discipline. This is something that the students should have a real interest in." He also emphasizes the interest of the committee in student ideas and he sees definite potential for more communication with the students through the structure of the Student Union. Further discussing the function of the committee, Dr. Fenner points out that it is also responsible for religious life on campus. "Next semester we'll be devoting several meetings to assessing religious attitudes of the students on campus. We're concerned with something much broader than just the liturgy and whether people go to Mass." The other area of interest for the committee deals generally with student housing. "Everyone is concerned with the housing situation and I hope that something will be done in the next year or so," he says.

About the future of Saint Joseph's, Dr. Fenner said, "I think we're recognizing the challenge that exists, and I think we're taking concrete steps to meet the challenge. We're more willing to involve students in the formulation of policy, there is a greater openness and willingness to involve the students. The students have not utilized all of their potential, however, and many do not realize the influence that they do have in this area." Dr. Fenner does feel that communication between the students and the rest of the college has definitely been improving.

Dr. Fenner's undergraduate studies were at Saint Anselm's College where he graduated in 1960 with a B.A. in history. In 1963 he earned an M.A. in the same area from Saint John's University in Brooklyn, and in 1966 he received his doctorate in history from the same university. He began teaching at Saint Joseph's in 1963 and is presently an assistant professor of history. "I came here because I was looking for a relatively small liberal arts college and Saint Joseph's seems to have filled the bill in this respect. I had been teaching at Saint John's and I didn't like the mass approach to education." Dr. Fenner has found teaching here satisfying but he says, "I think that the worst thing that could happen to a college is for the students and the faculty to become self-satisfied. They should be willing to criticize and to accept criticism." At Saint Joseph's Dr. Fenner feels that there is an excessive caution on the part of the students to criticize. He points out that most of these fears are unfounded and that the administration has been receptive to what criticism it has received. "The students have much more freedom than they realize."
